CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE

Year	Contents
1897	Founded as Kyoto Imperial University. The College of Science and Engineering was established.
1899	Colleges of Law and Medicine were established. The University Library and the University Hospital were established.
1906	The College of Letters was established.
1914	The College of Science and Engineering was divided into two, the College of Science and the College of Engineering.
1919	Colleges were reorganized into five faculties under the new University Ordinance. The Faculty of Economics was established.
1923	The Faculty of Agriculture was established.
1926	The Institute for Chemical Research was established.
1939	The Institute for Research in Humanities was established.
1941	The Chest Disease Research Institute and the Institute of Atomic Energy were established.
1944	The Wood Research Institute was established.
1946	The Research Institute for Food Science was established.
1947	Renamed KYOTO UNIVERSITY.
1949	Reorganized on the four-year schooling basis (with the exception of six years for medicine) under the new school education system. The Faculty of Education was established. The Branch School was established for general education of the freshmen and sophomores of the faculties.
1951	The Disaster Prevention Research Institute was established.
1953	Graduate courses under the new system were opened. The Yukawa Institute for Theoretical Physics was established.
1954	The Branch School was renamed the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.
1956	The Institute for Virus Research was established.
1960	The Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences was established.
1962	The Institute of Economic Research was established.

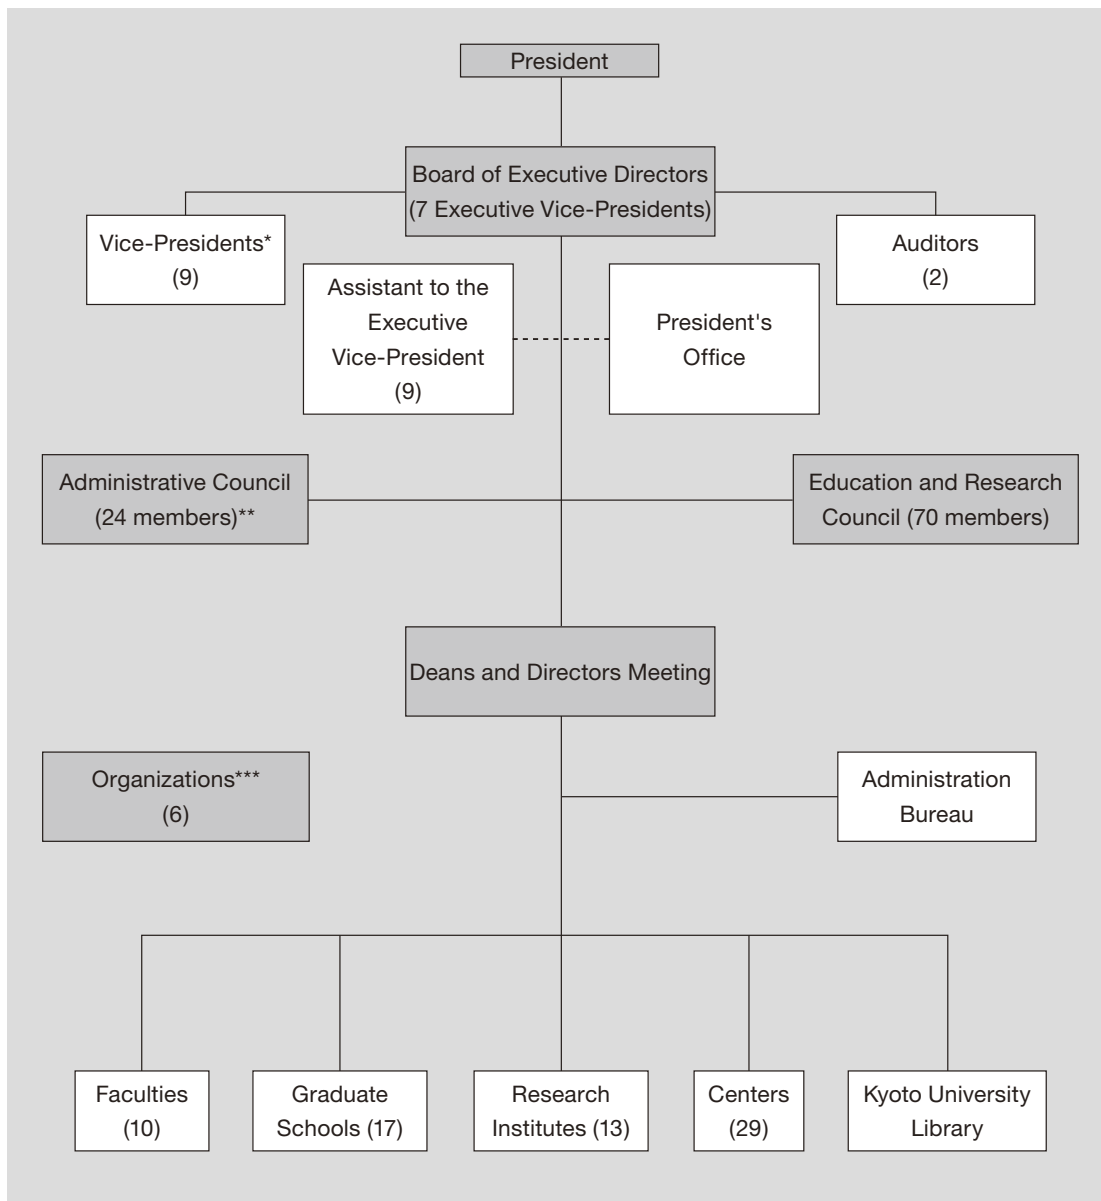

Year	Contents
1963	The Research Institute for Mathematical Sciences and the Research Reactor Institute were established.
1965	The Center for Southeast Asian Studies was established.
1966	The Center for Student Health was established.
1967	The Primate Research Institute was established.
1969	The Data Processing Center was established.
1971	The Radioisotope Research Center was established.
1972	The Research Center for Sports Science was established.
1975	The College of Medical Technology was established.
1976	The Plasma Physics Laboratory and the Radiation Biology Center were established.
1977	The Environment Preservation Center and the Center for Archaeological Operations were established.
1978	The Educational Center for Information Processing was established.
1980	The Research Center for Biomedical Engineering was established.
1981	The Radio Atmospheric Science Center was established.
1986	The Center for African Area Studies was established.
1988	The Center for Molecular Biology and Genetics was established.
1990	The Center for Student Exchange was established.
1991	The Graduate School of Human and Environmental Studies and the Center for Ecological Research were established.
1992	The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences was reorganized and renamed the Faculty of Integrated Human Studies.
1994	The Research Center for Higher Education was established.
1995	The Venture Business Laboratory was established.
1996	The Graduate School of Energy Science was established. The Institute of Atomic Energy and the Plasma Physics Laboratory were merged into the Institute of Advance Energy. The Student Counseling Center was established.

Year	Contents
1997	The Kyoto University Museum was established. The Educational Center for Information Processing was reorganized and renamed the Center for Information and Multimedia Studies.
1998	The Graduate School of Asian and African Area Studies and the Graduate School of Informatics were established. The Chest Disease Research Institute was reorganized and renamed the Institute for Frontier Medical Sciences. The Research Center for Biomedical Engineering was closed.
1999	The Graduate School of Biostudies and the Counseling Center were established. The Student Counseling Center was closed.
2000	The Radio Atmospheric Science Center was reorganized and renamed the Radio Science Center for Space and Atmosphere. The University Archives were established.
2001	The International Innovation Center was established. The Research Institute for Food Science was closed. The Center for Data Collection and Analysis was established.
2002	The Graduate School of Global Environmental Studies was established. The Center for Data Processing and the Center for Information and Multimedia Studies were reorganized and renamed the Academic Center for Computing and Multimedia Studies. The Research Center for Low Temperature and Materials Sciences and the Fukui Institute for Fundamental Chemistry were established.
2003	The Research Center for Sports Science was closed. The Seto Marine Biological Laboratory, University Forest, Subtropical Plant Institute and Fisheries Research Station were merged into the Field Science Education and Research Center. The Research Center for Higher Education was reorganized and renamed the Center for the Promotion of Excellence in Higher Education. The Institute for the Promotion of Excellence in Higher Education and the Law School were established. The College of Medical Technology was merged into the Graduate School of Medicine.
2004	Kyoto University incorporated in accordance with the National University Corporation Law.
	The Wood Research Institute and Radio Science Center for Space and Atmosphere were unified as the Research Institute for Sustainable Humanosphere. The Center for Southeast Asian Studies was given Institute status. The Center for Molecular Biology and Genetics and the Center for Data Collection and Analysis were closed.
2005	The Organization for the Promotion of International Relations, Environment, Safety, and Health Organization, International Innovation Organization, Institute for Information Management and Communication, and Library Network were established. The Center for Student Exchange was reorganized and renamed the International Center.
2006	The School of Government was established. The Graduate School of Management was established. The Center for Integrated Area Studies was established. The Nano Medicine Merger Education Unit was established. The Institute of Sustainability Science was established. The Kyoto University Pioneering Research Unit for Next Generation was established. The Center for Women Researchers was established.
2007	The Kokoro Research Center was established. The Advanced Medical Engineering Research Unit was established. The Career-Path Promotion Unit for Young Life Scientists was established. The College of Medical Technology was closed. The International Innovation Organization was reorganized and renamed the Kyoto University Office of Society-Academia Collaboration for Innovation. The International Innovation Center was reorganized and renamed the Innovative Collaboration Center. The Institute for Integrated Cell-Material Sciences was established.
2008	The Wildlife Research Center was established. The Center for Archaeological Operations was reorganized and renamed The Center for Cultural Heritage Studies. The Unit of Synergetic Studies for Space was established. The Education Unit for Global Leaders in Advanced Engineering and Pharmaceutical Sciences was established.

ORGANIZATION CHARTS

* Each of the Executive Vice-Presidents is in charge of a different area of university affairs (one of which is international relations).

 24 members, half of whom are Kyoto University faculty and staff.

 One of the six organizations is the Organization for the Promotion of International Relations.

UNIVERSITY FACILITIES

INTERNATIONAL HOUSES

In order to facilitate international education and research exchanges, Kyoto University has established three International Houses: housing facilities for students and researchers from overseas.

The International Houses are not simply housing facilities; they also serve as sites for interaction and exchange between the international students and researchers, university associates and the people of Kyoto.

The three Kyoto University International Houses are located in Shugakuin, Uji, and Ohbaku.

KYOTO UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

The Kyoto University Library was established over 100 years ago in 1899. The library is continually expanding its collection, which currently stands at approximately 824,000 books and 24,500 periodicals. In addition to regular printed material, the library also acquires other types of publications and media such as e-journals, data bases and audiovisual materials (available in the Media Commons), ensuring that it continues to be an up-to-date store of academic knowledge. Various services are also offered online.

(The total collection of all libraries on Kyoto University's campuses, including faculty and departmental libraries, amounts to 6,256,000 books and 89,000 periodicals).

UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

Kyoto University Hospital was established in 1899 as a part of Kyoto Imperial University. With the incorporation of the Chest Diseases Research Institute in April of 1998, the University Hospital became a general hospital with multiple departments, offering top-level medical services to people in and around Kyoto. The hospital currently has 1,182 beds. As of 2008, inpatients number approximately 363,000 and outpatients approximately 613,000.

In April 2001, the Translational Research Center was established to undertake research into fundamental transplants research in humans. In January 2003, the Post Graduate Clinical Education Center was established for medical trainees to broaden their understanding of primary medical care, and to acquire and develop a holistic attitude toward the treatment of patients.

In April 2005, the Post Graduate Clinical Education Center became the Integrated Clinical Education Center, a center which trains and educates not only clinicians and dental practitioners, but also nurses, pharmacists and other medical professionals.

The hospital began a program of living-donor liver transplantations in 1990. As of June 2004, over 1,000 living-donor liver transplantations have been performed, setting a world record. About half of all such transplantation operations in Japan have been carried out at Kyoto University Hospital, making it a world leading facility in this field.
